

Nashville Tennessean

circa 1928

THE NASHVILLE TENNESSEAN

NASHVILLE INDUSTRIAL REVIEW

As the Gateway of the South—Your Best Place to WORK, GROW AND INVEST IN NASHVILLE
With the following progressive concerns

Hosse & Hosse Prepare to Give Quick Service On Locks and Keys

Like many other industries, the past few years have brought marked advancement in the locksmithing business as will be revealed by a visit to Hosse & Hosse, 438 Deadrick street.

The days of the old-time locksmith who did much of his work by hand are gone. Such methods have been supplanted by improved machinery and specialization, and the business has kept pace with the advance made along all other industrial lines.

With all of the most modern equipment in the form of key cutting machinery, Hosse & Hosse offer a service that is up to the minute in every detail. E. E. Hosse declares that if a key is wanted but once in a year, it should be available when wanted, and in order to meet such demands, the company carries a stock of keys second to none in the South. The company is in position to furnish from one to 500 keys on short notice.

So well equipped is the Hosse & Hosse Company that Yale locks can be fitted in a few minutes, and the way in which it is done is a point of interest to those who visit the shop. Mr. Hosse states that visitors will always be welcome to come in and gives assurance that tidy mechanics in white frocks will show them about and explain the various operations incident to the task of fitting keys as well as giving expert advice on all lock and key problems.

Hosse & Hosse have recently been appointed agents for Yale door checks and burglar proof boxes, and will be pleased to show their line of such locks and explain what good locks will do in the matter of reducing the premiums on life insurance.

The company is a member of the American Association of Master Locksmiths, and E. E. Hosse, member of the firm, has recently returned from New York, where he was the sole Southern representative at the annual convention of the association. While in New York Mr. Hosse placed an order for some additional cutting machinery. The American Association of Master Locksmiths seek out the best in the business, and by the application of cooperative methods attempts to place its members in a position where they can best serve the public and to prevent unscrupulous persons from gaining lock information which might lead to loss of property by the public in general.

"When you have keys made or your locks repaired be sure master locksmiths do the work, and you make sure of the workmanship and of the security," Mr. Hosse says, and adds that the company gives "Right Now Service," and regardless of the nature of the work, "We Can Fix It."

The company was founded by A. F. Hosse in 1865, and makes practically every kind of key as well as doing repair work on any type of lock.